Of the University of Pennsylvania,
Proposes to receive a few Private Pupils to be instructed in the rudiments of
THE LATIN LANGUAGE.
HE confines himself to beginners; because he would not incur the danger of having many Classes, or being obliged to build on an insufficient foundation.
And as he will require their attendance but two hours in the day (from eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to one); there will be no need of removing them from the schools to which they have hitherto gone, or may be intended to be sent, for their improvement, in reading, writing, ciphering, and other useful branches of literature, not usually taught in a Latin school.

TO THE PUBLIC.
THE time being fixed on, when the MILITARY LAND (commonly called Knox's) WARRANTS, granted to the United States' army, are to be registered and located,—the subscribers have explored that tract of land on which those warrants are to be laid; with a view, and for the purpose of offering their services as locaters.
We take the liberty of suggesting, "that weare at least as well acquainted with the situation, quality of the soil, &c. of the different townships in the aforesaid tract, as any other person:" this will, perhaps, appear more clearly, by observing, that WILLIAM C. SCHENK assisted in running the Indian boundary line; at which time he considerably traversed that tract: he also assisted in surveying and laying it off into townships, and at other times ranged over it, to gain information. But to obtain a more complete and accurate knowledge, we have lately spent between two and three months, with several assistants, in particularly examining the different townships and quarter townships; by which means we have acquired an accurate knowledge of the whole district.—We now offer our services to the public, as Locaters, with assurances that we will locate every persons warrants intrusted to us to the best advantage, agreeably to their rights of location, which is to be determined according to law. For our services we demand the one equal tenth part, either in lands or warrants, when we locate a full tract, of four thousand acres or more, for one person or firm; the land to be taken in a square, at a corner of the tract; which corner is to be equitably determined before the time of location.—The one equal sixth part, in cash or warrants, when we connect and locate any amount less than four thousand acres. We will be in Philadelphia from December next, until after the time of location, to transact this business. Any person wishing to satisfy himself farther, will please to call on us, by letter, (postage paid) or otherwise; when due attention will be paid, and such vouchers may be seen as we have to offer, which we hope will be satisfactory.

PHILADELPHIA,
FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 13.

Justum et tenacem propositi virum,
Non civium ardor prava jubentium,
Non vultus instantis tyranni,
Mente quatit solida.——

The character of the cut-throat general, MASSENA, has long been established as that of the most atrocious Liar in all Europe. The knowledge of this circumstance did not however deter the True Americans from thrusting forth with avidity, exulting Handbills, wherein not only is currency given to the most abusive lies of that villain, but also to the mercenary comments thereon of the True-American English Editor, wherein, with the malice of a fiend, he traces the discomfiture of all the enterprises of the British arms. The French faction in the Council of One Hundred, it is said, were unable to keep their sitting, after the receipt of this news. If joy and sudden exultation do ever, as they are said to, extinguish the vital principle, why did they not on this occasion, remove some of that peace-making tribe? It is a work of supererogation, to demonstrate the mendacity of an established liar: but we shall do it in few words.

General Hotze was killed on the morning, and his army defeated in the after-part of the 23d September. On the twenty-eighth, Massena writes, that he has destroyed the two armies, Russian and Austrian, and is in pursuit of the remains. "The commander in chief, Hotze, was killed on the Field of Battle." "Suwarrow, in person attacked my right.—I am marching against him."—Thus, in the first part of his letter, he is pursuit of the remains of the Austrian and Bavarian corps, and in the latter part, is marching against Suwarrow. We express, without hesitation, our firm belief that this lying varlet is a prisoner in the hands of Marshal Suwarrow.

That profound politician, the King of Spain, seems to have imbibed towards his French allies, in consequence of their murdering his Holiness the Pope, sentiments rather repulsive of that submissiveness, which a nation owes in modern idea to its ally. He talks of their barren compassion, and seems not very well to digest the deposing of his Holiness from the Papal See. His Majesty may perchance find, should he indulge in this vein, that however barren his murderer ally may be in compassion, he is very fertile in revenge.

Mr. MURRAY, always conceiving, as he thought he did; that any negociation with France would be full of anxieties and political perils to the Envoys that should be employed, and having no desire to encounter said anxieties and political perils, had no wish to be engaged in it, and no expectation that he should be: to have a share in it was by him unsought: the mark of confidence was unexpected. Ye Guardian Powers! who make American dignity and true greatness and Independence and liberty, your care, watch more narrowly than ever over the sacred depositts in your hands, for, alas! they require all your attention!

The citizen Murray, that "valued" of Talleyrand, that dulcissime rerum, "thought he conceived" something. This out-Herods Herod—it outrages even the soupçonné d'être suspect of the Regicides, and reminds us of a very beautiful and significant passage in a popular song of New-England,

"Hancock's wife, she dreamt—a dream
"She dreamt—that she dreamt, something."

It is strongly recommended to divers of the Editors of our papers to adopt as a title for their Gazettes, The CHANGEFUL IRIS, or THE POLITICAL PRISM. Such a head would aptly express their convenient versatility. The device might be Joseph's coat of many colours, red to be predominant, especially after a French victory. A foolish, contradictory, improbable and garbled story of Massena, defeating, and killing myriads, taking 10,000 pieces of cannon, besides three or four Switzerlands and three or four Suwarrows is greedily adopted and pompously displayed by many of the Eastern Editors. In fact, there is a large number of True American, Federal French Columbian and Mercurial Conductors of the press, who, if Massena, or any other French villain should gain two or three successive battles would immediately sing Hosannah to the Republic, would cause the Hall of Old Faneuil to echo with murder and The Marseilles, would devour Oxen roasted whole, would cut up balls of Baize for red bonnets and hiccup in "Ale or viler liquors" glory and long life to Genet.

PROLEGOMENA.
The expectations we had indulged ourselves in, of the fertility of Doctor MILDMAY'S leisurely industry, not having been fulfilled by the receipt of any further communications from that learned Divine, we have only to offer him in return for his remissness, our inexpressible and unavailing regret, mortification and chagrin. We are surprised, astonished, amazed, confounded, if BLAIR will permit us to be so. It must, however, in common charity be allowed, that the Doctor's name, is a most untoward one, for literary pursuits in the hanging and drowning month of December.
This failure on the part of our orthodox friend, compels us to borrow a chaplet from the wreathed brow of Democracy.
We know not what our Federal Readers may think of us, for giving currency to an effusion of Democratic genius; but in the death of governmental industry, we shall be compelled to avail ourselves of the productions of alien wit, even though inimical; impressed as we are, with the justice of an old remark—fas est et ab boste doceri.

ELEGY
FOR A NORTHAMPTON PATRIOT;
Humbly attempted in the best manner of
WILLIAM JULIUS MICKLE, Esq.
By the Reverend Doctor LB.
Cum notis variorum.
Each chop-fall'n hammer thee, poor patriot, mourns,
And F*'s name, each Vendue-man returns;
For thee, lorn Chapmen sigh, their goods among,
And oft, their curses, railing, roll along.
For thee, thy Club, sedition's evening host,
In gin-shop quaff the unavailing toast.
Alas! sweet victim of tyrannic pow'r!
When shall our Justice, claim her equal hour?
Thy rights are limited by impious chains
And Insurrection* curdles in thy veins;
Equality and Rights of Man forgot,
Did ever Patriot mourn a viler lot?
—So, erst, WAT TYLER, soldier, saint and sage,
Aspir'd to rule o'er rampant rabble's rage;
Pursued the well-born, wigged† man of gold,
Guarded his houshold, and watch'd o'er his fold:
What though he dabbled, now and then in "flour,"
And "a few thousand dollars" snatch'd from pow'r:
Tho' now and then, for reformation's sake,
Tore down old houses, room for new to make;
"Yet he was kind, or if severe in aught,
"The love he bore to justice was in fault."
Since in return for all the ills he gave,
He hung rich rogues, poor honest men to save.
In his good days, it was not strange to see,
On pauper's head, the cap of Liberty;
And no damn'd§ house-tax, servants' hire‖ to pay,
Banish'd fair peace and happiness away.
Then citizen Adam delv'd, and Eve span;
No saucy Jack, was then a gentleman.
Then want was furnish'd with the pow'r to thrive,
For men who'd hands to take, had means to live.
And no curs'd§ alien, nor sedition laws,
Restrain'd ambition in the public cause.
But Friends of Order, foes to public good,
Hated the man, and thirsted for his blood.
A gathering crowd encompass'd him around,
And limited his walks to narrow ground:
Near and more near th' impatient low'reigns drew,
Frail and more frail Sir Tyler's breath still grew;
One Ketch, a friend, with kindliest intent,
An inchen rope around his neck had bent;
And while to raise him from the crowd he tried.
WAT struggled, strangled, stifled, suffocating kick'd and died.††
Tho', some say, WALWORTH, chevalier so fine
Our conynge maisterre cleft from nave to chine.††

We have also in our possession, a Dactylic, after the manner of Southey, by the ingenious Livingston, on the burning of his Father's House.

Of the Russian or Austrian armies, not any
Will escape to St. Petersburg or to Vienna;
For while one gallops one way, and t'other another,
With right leg, see one chas'd, with left leg* the other.

* The different legs of Massena, it is supposed our poet means. If the French General has as many chasing legs as he has cursed lies at his service, he can easily run after, and kick every individual soldier in the Austro Russian service.

INTERESTING NARRATIVE

Of Colonel PHELIPEAUX, who fell in defence of the city of Acre.

Mr. Phelipeaux's misfortunes commenced with his birth, when he loft his mother.—His father furvived her but five years, at which time the care of his education devolved upon an uncle, who, removing him from La Vendee to Paris, he, when feven years old, obtained admiffion into the king's military academy. Here, quickneſs, judgment, and application, rarely united in the ſame perſon, obtained for him more premiums than had ever been given to another, and double the accuſtomed penſion. A ſimilitude of talents, and an equal thirſt for knowledge, occaſioned an intimacy with Buonaparte. For nine years they ſcarcely paſſed a day aſunder, and a friendſhip then created by a mutual admiration of exalted genius, continued amidſt the party rage which deſolated their country, and in too many inſtances diſſolved the moſt ſacred connections.

Phelipeaux and Buonaparte obtained commiſſions at the ſame time, and ſerved much together till the revolution, when the former, attached from principle and gratitude to the crown, joined in the exile of its adherents.

Thrice, however, Phelipeaux was appointed by the princes upon the moſt important and dangerous miſſions,—to ſupport and make converts to the cauſe of loyalty in France. Upon one of theſe occaſions, he was ſeized by the republicans, but eſcaped ſoon after. Upon another viſit, being taken into cuſtody, he was immured nine months in a dungeon at Orleans, from whence he was removed to Bourges, and in the ſanguinary reign of Robeſpierre, ordered to be guillotined. A few hours preceding the time appointed for his execution, he removed the bars from his window, which, being three ſtories high, had not been much attended to; and cutting his ſheets into ſtrips, he lowered himſelf to within fifteen feet of the ground, upon which he dropped, when happening to alight upon a heap of manure, he aided by the night, eſcaped.

In the ſummer of 1796, he went to Paris, with the deſign of ſetting free ſir Sidney Smith, and his gallant friend Wright, from the tower of the Temple, oppoſite to which he took an apartment, where he communicated ſigns to the priſoners. At length, aſſiſted by two friends, he broke into the court of the gaol, where being diſcovered by a centinel, who gave the alarm, he and his comrades were compelled to fly.

On the revolution of the 10th Fructidor, he retired to Switzerland, where receiving intelligence that ſir Sdney Smith had been marked for ſlaughter, he returned to Paris, determined, with the aid of the ſame two friends, to again endeavour to effectuate his deliverance. For this purpoſe, having provided relays of horſes, &c. on two roads, he forged an order from the directory to the keeper of the Temple, to deliver to him the bodies of ſir Sidney Smith and Mr. Wright, in order that they might be conveyed to the Conciergerie; and diſguiſed himſelf and one friend in the uniform of the National Guard, he preſented the ſuppoſed order, which being inſtantly obeyed, he and his friend, with the intended victims, ſet off in a fiacre. The public are already apprized that the driver having accidentally overſet a woman, occaſioned a crowd to aſſemble, when the party in the coach deemed it expedient to leave it, whilſt the greater part of the attention of the multitude was occupied by the female ſufferer. After traverſing numerous byelanes, and twice loſing their way, the fugitives got without the barriers, where a carriage in waiting conveyed them to the firſt ſtage; they got reſtive horſes, which creating an aſſemblage of the people, the party, which now conſiſted only of Sir Sidney, Phelipeaux, and Wright, walked out of the town whilſt other horſes were provided; after which they did not experince any difficulty on on their route to Rouen. Here they were compelled to remain eight days; during which time, returning from the country after the night guard had been ſet, they were challenged; but Sir Sidney, who, accompanied by a lady of the city, led the way, paſſed the wicker freely, as did Mr. Wright, but the ſentinel, from ſome circumſtance, demanded to ſee Phelipeaux's paſs, and the converſation attracting ſome perſons near the ſpot, Sir Sidney returned, and, with that coolneſs and preſence of mind, for which he is ſo eminently diſtinguiſhed, ſaid to the ſoldier, You may let him paſs; he is a good citizen; I will anſwer for that! Phelipeaux was inſtantly enlarged. They on the following day proceeded to the coaſt, and at length reached England.

Sir Sidney Smith, not leſs diſtinguiſhed for the warmth and goodneſs of his heart, than for his profeſſional ability, with a brother's affection treated his deliverer; who accompanied Sir Sidney in Le Tigre, and on arriving at Conſtantinople, obtained, through the faithful friendſhip and juſt diſcrimation of our countryman, the rank of colonel, and a regiment from the Porte.—His ſervices at Acre are already known.—His conſtitution, naturally delicate, and impaired by his confinement at Orleans, was unequal to the anxious and unceaſing duty of the ſiege—he had ſtood with Sir Sidney, with the ever to be lamented capt. Miller, of the Theſeus, and our other gallant countrymen, to receive three aſſaults in one night, until the multitude of the ſlain occaſioned putridity. He for ſome weeks grew progreſſively worſe; and at the age of 31 died of a broken conſtitution; lamented as he had been beloved, and perhaps, not leaving a braver or better officer in any ſervice.

COMMUNICATION.

If in every man there is a perpetual conflict between feelings and duties, feelings that impel and duties that reſtrain, how can it be otherwiſe in a ſociety compoſed of men? An individual has an intereſt in the ſecurity of another's right; he is reſtrained from invading it by education, by ſhame and by conſcience. But in numerous ſocieties, a real or imagined darkneſs reſts upon the origin, the nature, and the limits of rights and duties. Theſe become a myſtery and take the name of Law, often dreadful to the ignorance it protects, forever odious to the paſſions it reſtrains; paſſions which gave Honeſtus readers, Shays and Bradford their mobs. How can it be otherwiſe? As a ſingle individual ſometimes miſtakes, and often diſregards his duties and another's rights, and therefore law is neceſſary to check and puniſh his miſconduct. So a numerous ſociety has ſtill more need of law and government, of authority, force and terror, to keep honeſt men quiet in their beds, and in the enjoyment of their excluſive poſſeſſions. For by aſſociating together, men render their duties more obſcure and their paſſions an hundred fold more contagious and impetuous. Where there is a good government there will be induſtry, and that will bring wealth. The more wealth, the more poverty and inequality of conditions, the more envy, turbulence and faction. Proſperity is therefore as ſure to make malcontents as oppreſſion. The object of all faction is to get ſomething that the laws and the magiſtrates protect and withhold. Hence it is that all regular governments, even deſpotiſms, as ſoon they are eſtabliſhed, enforce duties, and the revolutionary principle is the impulſe of paſſions and feelings againſt duties. In France, from the firſt hour of that abhor'd revolution, every duty was repreſented to the people as an oppreſſion—not merely a wrong but an inſult; and every wiſh of the mob a right. The ardor and even the fury of deſire, was applauded as the noble and the godlike love of liberty. To be violent was merit, to pull down was patriotiſm, to be mad was philoſophy. Duties not only loſt all authority, but Frenchmen were inſtructed to be aſhamed of them as prejudices. Paſſions were admitted as principles. The majority not only had force on their ſide, but were believed to be a law unto themſelves; ſo that if they thought fit to invade the rights of the minority, as they inſtantly did, there was no wrong done, and the ſufferers had no right to pity or redreſs. They ſlew their King, though he was innocent, and their conſtitution, which they had ſolemnly ſworn to obſerve, had made his life ſacred. They killed their prieſts becauſe they would not forſwear the Chriſtian religion. Such of the nobles as had the choice to ſtay and be hanged, or to run away and ſuffer their eſtates to be confiſcated for emigration, thought themſelves happy. Yet their Conſtitution was boaſted to be founded on perfect freedom of choice—the rich were indeed free to accept it; to be guillotined if they did not.

In all this what do we ſee but human nature much degraded by ignorance, much corrupted by vice. Yet it is human nature. The admirers of the revolutionary principle, who are many, will ſee in this example the effects of making paſſions violent, and duties laws and magiſtrates weak and therefore contemptible. That principle is jacobiniſm—it is to get by popular paſſions thoſe objects of envy and deſire that laws and duties protect and deny.

Munroe is elected Governor of Virginia.

Kern, the new elected Democratic Sheriff of Northampton County, has given an excellent ſpecimen of his attachment to the Federal Conſtitution, which he has ſworn to ſupport, by ſummoning one of the Grand Inqueſt at the court of Oyer and Terminer, held for ſaid county in November laſt, a fellow by the name of John Jarret, who was indicted at the Circuit Court of the United States, held laſt April at Philadelphia, for the Diſtrict of Pennſylvania, and to be tried at the next Circuit Court held for Pennſylvania Diſtrict, for obſtructing the laws of the Federal Government. What may not the people of Northampton County, attached to the Federal Government, expect from Grand Inqueſts, during the Sheriffs time, eſpecially if compoſed of all or a majority of ſuch creatures as Jarret?

AN OBSERVER.

December 9th, 1799.

A letter from captain Thompſon, of the ſhip Concord, to his owner in this city, dated Iſle of France, May 20, ſays, "The ſhip is now ſequeſtered—cargo landed, and the remnant of my crew diſperſed."

A letter of the 10th November, from Cape Francois, to a Gentlemen in this city, ſays, "The fever has prevailed here, perhaps as bad as in Philadelphia; above 100 Americans have died within three or four weeks, among them ſome of my moſt intimate acquaintances, after a very ſhort illneſs—but it has now nearly ſubſided.

"We had an earthquake here a few days ſince, which I am informed has done great damage to the city of Gonaives, nearly one third of which is ſunk or overflowed."

EQUALITY. A gentleman, who writes acute and correct criticiſms, on the Theatrical performances at New York, has been threatened by ſeveral of the vagabond crew, with perſonal vengeance.

The well-known David Alliſon, Eſquire, who died in the priſon of Philadelphia, is ſaid to be at preſent alive and well, in Kentucky. He eſcaped from durance vile, by means of a coffin.

The account given by the Greek hiſtorian, of the Democratic ſedition in the Iſland of Corcyra, as it ſeems to have been ſtudied in what relates to the paſt, by the actors of thoſe ſcenes which have for now ſeven years diſturbed the repoſe of this country, as well as of that which has ſo recently aſtoniſhed the People of Pennſylvania, furniſhes alſo, a clue, by which "we may gueſs with a near aim, at the main chance of things to come." The Engliſh Hiſtorian of Greece, Gillies (now Hiſtoriographer to the King) who tho' not a popular writer, is not unfrequently terſe, correct and elegant, has touched en paſſant upon this intereſting occurrence, and gives a tranſlation (which I know not whether to aſcribe to him) of a paſſage in Thucidides, deſcribing the conſequences of this bloody democratic ſedition, in language at once luminous and impreſſive. "But the cauſes and the conduct of this formula of all ſucceeding ſeditions, muſt be ſought for in the intereſting detail of the Ancient. Private enmities, crimes, popular odiums, debts and other embarraſſments, exiſt to be cancelled, an inſufferable burden to each inſurgent. Revolutions are the moſt general ſolvents, afford fitteſt occaſions for wreaking private revenge, and to crime and its odium; are the never-failing ſtreams of oblivion.

The morbid deſire for an alliance with France, that ſcarlet whore, reminds us of the abſurd wiſh of an Iriſh lover.

Who wanted a wife—to make him eaſy."

SCHUYLKILL
PERMANENT BRIDGE.

For the information of the Stockholders in the company, incorporated for the erection of a Permanent Bridge over the river Schuylkill, and others of our fellow citizens who are desirous that this useful undertaking should succeed, it is thought expedient and proper, by the President and Directors of that company to state the present situation of its affairs.

THE company was incorporated on the 27th day of April, 1798; and by a clause in the law authorizing this incorporation, the legislature may resume the rights, &c. granted to the company, if they do not "proceed to carry on the work" in two years, and complete the bridge in five years, after they had been incorporated.

As soon as practicable, the company proceeded to the choice of the officers required by law; and the President and Directors have been constant in their endeavours to encrease the number of subscribers to the stock. The number of shares subscribed when the company was organized, was 5216 With all the exertions made since, it is now only 5638; though of the 15,000 contemplated by law, 12,000 (at ten dollars each) are allotted for the active capital of the company.

As the public opinion, coinciding with that of the President and Directors, appeared to be fixed on the scite at the west end of Market street, it was deemed a primary object to obtain from the corporation of the city, their right to the ferry at that place. Negociations were accordingly commenced for the purpose.—These ended in a contract with the city corporation, to the following effect—

1. 5000 dollars to be paid to the city corporation when the subscriptions to the bridge stock amount to the value of 11,000 shares—a like sum in four months thereafter with interest—5000 dollars further in eight months—and the like sum in twelve months, with interest.

2. The city corporation take, as payment for 20,000 dollars, (to make the whole consideration monies 40,000 dollars) two thousand shares in the bridge stock, on terms detailed in the contract.

3. The 11,000 shares being subscribed, and the first instalmene of the purchase monies paid, the right to the ferry and its enumerated appurtenances, with certain parts of the scite and the brick tavern, to be conveyed to the bridge company, on their mortgaging the premises, in the contract mentioned, for 15,000 dollars, the residue of the pecuniary payments, with interest.

4 If the erection is not completed in the period fixed, or which may be fixed by the legislature, the property and rights are to re vest in the corporation of the city, on terms prescribed in the contract; which contains other subordinate arrangements, too lengthy to be herein particularly detailed.

The sum agreed to be given was unavoidable. We found the councils of the city inflexibly determined not to take less. We deemed it eligible to make some sacrifices (if any we have made) to avoid competitions injurious and embarrassing, both in the commencement and progress of our intended enterprize.

Warned by experience of the fatal consequences of beginning works, requiring extensive pecuniary support, without a certainty of its being within our power, we agreed to that part of the contract requiring 11,000 shares to be actually subscribed, before it takes effect.—We do not desire to conceal our indisposition to embark in this undertaking, until the number of shares subscribed shall, at least, equal that required by this contract. Nor shall we engage in the business until the instalments directed by law shall be in the treasurer's hands, to an amount sufficient to encourage us to begin the work, with solid prospects of complying with our engagements to those with whom we may contract.

We have received a number of plans in consequence of our advertisement for the purpose, but have made no selection. We shall prefer that which unites œconomy with stability, and accommodation to all circumstances attached to the place of erection. The scite must be fixed before the plan is adopted It must be perceived that a deficiency of subscriptions to our stock prevents our obtaining the scite provisionally contracted for, which, however expensive it may appear, is certainly the most eligible and productive.

We have not called for the second instalment, from those who have already subscribed, because we do not think ourselves warranted, from present appearances, to commence the work. The monies already paid (one dollar on each share subscribed, deducting our necessary expenditures, which will appear in our accounts) lie useless to us in the bank. They must remain inactive, till by further subscriptions, we are enabled to proceed in the execution of our trust; as we have no authority to employ them for any other purposes, than those directed by the act of incorporation. Our minutes and accounts will be laid before the stockholders, at the next meeting for the annual election of officers. They are always open for the inspection of the members of the company.

All the books and forms required for the progress of the business are prepared; and we are otherwise completely ready to proceed, if the most essential requisite were in our possession. It will be seen that there is a deficiency of 5362 shares to give validity to our contract with the city corporation, and to justify us in commencing the work

We have a strong perfuasion, founded on accurate information of the product of bridges in other states, and calculations of profit here, that investments in our stock will be equal, in point of emolument, with those made in any other permanent funds in this city. The company may divide, in biennial dividends, 15 per cent. annually during twenty five years; and if the bridge be made free, they are to receive its value on a fair estimate—The Charles River Bridge near Boston (1500 feet long and 42 wide) cost 50,000 dollars, and yields from 20 to 24 per cent. clear of all expences. The bridge at Cambridge (7000 feet long and 42 wide) cost 80,000 dollars; and yields from 12 to 14 per cent. Some deductions have been made, to remedy defects in the timber originally used, but these expences will no longer be necessary. Immense bodies of ice assail these bridges without injury—Neither of them are better situated to command toll, than that we contemplate over the Schuylkill, which is only 400 feet wide.

Whether we shall proceed or not, depends on the disposition of our fellow citizens to encourage the undertaking. We cannot help fostering the flattering expectation, that, from motives of public spirit and private emolument, we shall yet be supported in our ardent wishes to complete an erection, eminently promotive of the interests, as well as the credit of our city.

The work being in itself inviting, and the object of great public utility, as well to ourselves as to our posterity, we more confidently solicit subscriptions.

By order,
RICHARD PETERS,
President.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,
NOW RUNNING BETWEEN
PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,
By the short and pleasant road of
Bustleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populousness of the country through which it passes, with sundry other advantages, which render it so far preferable to the Old Road through Bristol, Brunswick, &c. long ago suggested the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is amongst the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and in these respects, the New Road is, beyond all comparison, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old Road so fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The soil, too, for the greater part, is such as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little dust in summer, which circumstance, added to the beauty of the country, and a considerable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter season peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure starts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, opposite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth street. It goes through Frankford to Bustleton, where it stops to Breakfast; from Bustletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millstone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it stops at Springfield to breakfast, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it starts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For seats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee house, to A. Mathieu, corner of Nassau and John streets, to B. Mauy, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich street, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad street.

Fare for passengers, Five Dollars.
Way passengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each passenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a passenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With respect to packages sent on without passengers, the proprietors presume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of stages, they think must meet with general approbation. They pledge themselves to make good every package on the following conditions. The person who delivers the package at the office shall see it entered in the stage-book, for which entry he shall pay 6 cents; he will then state the value of the package, and pay (exclusive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as insurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for instance, if he estimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent. and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar insurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few persons it is presumed, will dislike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himself of this security or not. But the proprietors think it right to state very explicitly, that they will be responsible for the safe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an insurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the distribution of the route, the greatest care has been taken to fix on such places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the passengers at the most reasonable rates. The stages are well equipped furnished with fleet and steady horses, and committed to the care of intelligent sober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themselves live at the different towns and villages where the stages will stop, so that the conduct of the persons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care also to see that the passengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no sort of chicanery or insolence is practised upon them; in short, they have spared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very best line of stages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every passenger has found the road to surpass very far all that has been said of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviour of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns spoken of with the highest satisfaction.
